PREFACE

The Alberta Retail and Service Trade Statistics survey is an annual survey of the retail and service trade sectors of the province conducted by the Survey Operations Unit of the Alberta Bureau of Statistics. This publication presents the results of the 1985 survey. The survey is conducted under the Statistics Bureau Act of Alberta which sets confidentiality requirements restricting the publication of statistics that could be associated with or could identify an individual establishment.

As part of the ongoing effort to economize resources and reduce the burden faced by Alberta businesses in responding to surveys, the Bureau of Statistics is discontinuing the Retail and Service Trade Statistics. The 1985 publication is the last edition.

The Bureau of Statistics would like to express its appreciation to all of those businesses in the retail and service trade sectors who provided the data used to prepare these statistics over the years.

INTRODUCTION

Alberta Retail and Service Trade Statistics is an annual publication of the Alberta Bureau of Statistics. The data presented are based on a survey undertaken by the Bureau on the number of outlets and employees, as well as the level of payroll and sales of the retail and service trade establishments in the province. The 1985 publication is the fourteenth, and as stated in the Preface, the last in this series.

The publication is divided into three sections. The first section presents a description of the survey methodology and statistical highlights in the retail and service trade sectors in 1985.

The second section consists of 51 tables which provide data on the number of outlets and employees, and the value of payrolls and sales receipts for over 140 business categories, grouped by various population aggregations. The population groupings used in the tables include: total Alberta, the fifteen cities of the province, 21 towns with a population of greater than 5,000, and 37 towns with a population range of 2,000 - 5,000. The latter three groupings are presented both on an aggregate and individual basis. Data for selected communities with a population of fewer than 2,000 are also included. The last group of tables (Tables 46 to 51) summarizes the data previously presented.

The final section contains three appendixes. Appendix A defines the terms used in the publication, Appendix B describes the types of businesses surveyed, and Appendix C contains 1985 population data for the various cities, towns, and municipalities included in the survey.

METHODOLOGY

The Retail and Service Trade Statistics survey is undertaken by the Alberta Bureau of Statistics every March. The data collected for 1985 are based on the individual businesses' fiscal year ending between April 1, 1985 and March 31, 1986. A questionnaire is mailed to retail and service trade businesses in the province requesting information concerning the number of employees (both full-time and part-time) of the establishment, the total payroll, and total receipts from sales or services. Businesses not surveyed include professional service trades such as dentists, establishments that provide a service to other businesses, retailers as a minor activity of wholesalers or manufacturers, direct door-to-door retailers and those that generate annual sales of less than $5,000. The types of businesses surveyed by the Bureau are listed in Appendix B.

All establishments surveyed are classified in accordance with the 1980 Standard Industrial Classification (SIC) Codes and the kind-of-business categories employed by Statistics Canada.* The SIC categories are assigned on the basis of the major activity of the establishment being surveyed.

After the initial mailout of questionnaires in March, a number of follow-up questionnaires are sent to those establishments that did not respond to the first mailout (telephone follow-ups were used for the first time this year to contact those establishments from whom no response had been obtained for the two previous years). Once the statistics are collected, they undergo a number of editing and processing checks to identify and correct data response errors.

* The reader should note that in Appendix B, eight of the kind-of-business categories listed are created by, and unique to, the Bureau of Statistics.

Procedures are also in place to account for non-response to the survey. An estimate is made for those establishments for which data are not collected, based on a number of factors: the location of the business, trends derived from those businesses within the same SIC which do respond to the survey, and wherever possible, the use of data collected from the establishment-in-question in previous surveys. Actual and estimated data are then aggregated to provide total trade levels for those businesses surveyed in Alberta and sub-provincial areas.

Updating procedures are also applied year-round to ensure the most comprehensive coverage possible which include adding newly-established businesses to the survey universe, and deleting those establishments no longer in business.

Response to the survey is measured by the effective response fraction, which is the percentage of actual receipts in relation to total receipts. In 1985, the effective response rate was 80 percent of total trade receipts - the highest response fraction in the survey's history. The retail trade figure was based on 83 percent actual data, an increase from 74 percent in 1984, while service trade statistics were based on 66 percent actual data, an increase from the 55 percent response fraction of 1984. The overall response for the various types of businesses ranged from a high of 92 percent in the general merchandise group, to a low of 55 percent in the food and beverage services group.

The retail and service data contained in this publication differ from those published by Statistics Canada for several reasons. Firstly, the Alberta Bureau of Statistics strives for a comprehensive survey of establishments in Alberta while Statistics Canada bases their data on a sample. This results in the Bureau of Statistics providing greater detail at the industry and sub-provincial levels. Secondly, Statistics Canada surveys the retail sector on a monthly basis, aggregating the monthly data to a yearly total at the end of each calendar year, whereas, the Alberta Bureau of Statistics surveys the retail sector only once a year, collecting data for a fiscal year as opposed to each month. The surveys, therefore, differ in design. The two surveys also vary in the methodology used to make estimates for the non-responding or non-sampled portion of the survey universe. In addition, the criteria used by the Bureau of Statistics in defining some of the business categories differ slightly from those used by Statistics Canada.

The statistics presented in this publication conform to the confidentiality guidelines of the Statistics Bureau Act, Chapter S-22, Revised Statutes of Alberta, 1980. The Act prohibits the disclosure of information pertaining to any individual establishment. In some cases, it may be necessary to suppress some statistics which are not in themselves confidential, in order to protect confidential statistics from residual disclosure. An asterisk in place of a statistic indicates that the information cannot be released in order to conform to the confidentiality guidelines.

The statistics on the number of outlets belonging to any type of business are not suppressed since disclosure of this type of information is not governed under the Statistics Bureau Act. The data for numbers of employees, payroll and receipts are suppressed if statistics would release information on one or two outlets. They are also suppressed for three or more outlet totals where one or two outlets account for the majority of the receipts in the group, or in the event its release would result in residual disclosure.

CAUTIONARY NOTE

This year the Alberta Bureau of Statistics enhanced its estimation technique resulting in greater accuracy of data for firms not responding to the survey. Combined with the Bureau's continual updates to the list of retail and service trade establishments, differences in the data from previous years may be a reflection of a change in statistical methodology or the timing and focus of the last update. Caution, therefore, is advised when doing trend analysis using previous years' statistics.

HIGHLIGHTS

This section presents highlights of the 1985 retail and service trade data for Alberta. The highlights are based on Summary Tables 46 to 50 which present data for fourteen business groups and six community groupings: total Alberta, cities (excluding Calgary and Edmonton), Calgary and Edmonton combined, towns of population greater than 5,000, towns of population between 2,000 and 5,000, and towns of population fewer than 2,000.

- Total provincial trade receipts (retail and service combined) was $19.1 billion. At the provincial level and for the five community size groups, retail trade generated at least 82% of total receipts. This proportion was the same as in 1984.

- As in previous years, the automotive group generated the highest receipts, accounting for about 31% of total provincial trade, followed by the food, drug and beverage group with 21%.

- Although the split between retail and service trade was similar across the community size groups, differences did occur for specific business groups. Calgary and Edmonton, for example, generated proportionately higher receipts from apparel and accessories, household furniture, general merchandise retail businesses and from food and beverage services than those of smaller communities. In comparison, the food, beverage, and drug retail group, and accommodation services had proportionately greater sales in smaller communities.

- Calgary and Edmonton, with just over 50% of the province's population, accounted for the largest shares of both retail and service trade receipts, about 57% in each category. These shares are similar to those in recent years.

- The average receipts per outlet decreased with the size of community for all business groups, with a few minor exceptions. Other than in the food, drug and beverage group, Calgary and Edmonton generated the highest receipts per outlet among all community size groups.

- The average receipts per retail outlet in Alberta was $1.2 million. The general merchandise group in Calgary and Edmonton had the highest receipts per outlet because of the concentration of department stores in Alberta's major centres.

- The average service outlet in Alberta generated $431,000 in sales with accommodation services generating the highest receipts per outlet among all community size groups.

- Receipts per capita were $6,882 for retail trade and $1,348 for the service sector, for a combined total trade of $8,230 per capita.

- Towns with population of greater than 5,000 had the greatest sales per capita, and towns with population of fewer than 2,000 had the least sales per capita.

- Highest per capita receipts were in the automotive group across all communities, which is consistent with this group's overall dominance of trade receipts in Alberta.

APPENDIXES

APPENDIX A

Definitions

The following definitions apply uniformly throughout this publication.

Principal Statistics - Consists of the number of outlets, full-time and part-time employees, payroll and receipts.

Total Trade - The combined total of retail plus service trade.

Receipts - Includes all (gross) receipts from sales and/or services. Receipts are reported on a fiscal year basis.

Payroll - Includes salaries and wages, commissions, bonuses, payments for leaves or holidays and payments in kind. Excluded are proprietor's withdrawals or salaries, and the salaries and wages of employees involved in contract work. Figures are reported on a fiscal year basis.

Employees - Includes the average annual number of full-time and the average annual number of part-time positions on a fiscal year basis. Working owners are excluded unless the business is incorporated. Persons involved in contract work are excluded.

Retail Establishments - A business engaged primarily in the selling of merchandise directly to the final consumer. Non-profit and community run businesses are excluded.

Service Outlet - A business primarily engaged in providing a service to consumers for a fee. Non-profit and community run businesses are excluded.

Business Group - A broad merchandise category under which all related business establishments are grouped (e.g., Food or Automotive).

Type of Business - The finest breakdown of a business group into its activity classification (e.g., Confectionery Stores or Department Stores) based on Statistics Canada's Kind of Business classification.

Reference Period - Statistics are reported by respondents for the fiscal year ending between April 1, 1985 and March 31, 1986.
